Identify which pronoun is needed.

1. Hint

Remember, the pronoun replaces the noun.

2. Hint

Look at this example. Steven, Alison, and I are walking home. We can replace multiple nouns (Steven, Alison, and I) with the plural pronoun we. We are walking home.

3. Hint

Remember to use the appropriate personal pronoun. For example, when we are describing something that is his, we can describe that person as he.

4. Hint

There are two types of personal pronouns: subjective and objective.

Subjective pronouns describe the subject in a sentence: he, she, they, them, his, hers...

Objective pronouns describe the object in a sentence: it.

Identify which pronoun is needed.

Answer key: 1: He // 2: she // 3: it // 4: us

The pronouns are he, she, it, and us.

He is enjoying his lunch. Since we see the pronoun his, we know the subject is he.

Does she have her homework? Since we see the pronoun her, we know the subject is she.

I don't need this book, do you want it? A book is an object, so we use the objective personal pronoun it.

Eli and I are going to the movies, do you want to come with us? We are describing multiple people, including the speaker, so we use the plural personal pronoun us.
